Dorothy Lee was born in Scotland and spent her childhood between the UK and Australia. After lecturing in the Uniting Church for a number of years, she was ordained into the Anglican Church, appointed Frank Woods Distinguished Lecturer in Biblical Studies in 2008, and, in 2011, was appointed Dean of the Theological School at Trinity College.

She is an experienced teacher, preacher, and writer, with strong ecumenical connections and commitment. Her publications have been mainly in the Gospel of John, and her latest book, Hallowed in Truth and Love: Spirituality in the Johannine Literature, is soon to be published by Mosaic Press. She has two daughters, and one grand-daughter.

Chris Monaghan CP is a Passionist who studied at Yarra Theological Union (YTU) in Melbourne and then at the Pontifical Biblical Institute in Rome and Jerusalem. Since 1987 he has been lecturing at YTU in units ranging from the introductory units to the Old Testament to the Passion Narratives of the Synoptic Gospels.

The major focus throughout these years has been Matthew, Luke-Acts and the letters of Paul. During this period Chris has been engaged in adult education programs through schools, parishes and ministry to priests. Making the Bible in its richness accessible to people at all levels is an enduring passion.
